GEEWA EXPANDS, TAKES BRNO-BASED CUKETA ON BOARD

Prague, 26th September 2012

Geewa, the leading casual online games developer and publisher from the Czech Republic, continues to grow, as Cuketa becomes part of Geewa in September. The Brno team brings experience gained during the development of Age of Defenders, a unique take on the tower defense genre. Geewa offices now cover three cities, with the Brno branch joining the Prague headquarters and Berlin branch.

Cuketa is a team of seven passionate gamers and industry professionals who successfully published Age of Defenders following a two-year development. The game boasts a range of prestigious awards, among them a place in the "TOP 3 Strategy games of 2011" choice by the industry leading portal Mochi Games. Synchronous play between real players is a key factor of the successful title. This feature is a cornerstone of all Geewa games, especially its flagship title Pool Live Tour.

Miloš Endrle, founder and CTO at Geewa, is excited about the Cuketa acquisition: "With its Games the Cuketa team has proven their ability to combine quality technical solutions with the gaming principles that are fundamental to Geewa. I am happy that our new Brno branch is built on such a great team with strong know-how." Filip Kuna, project manager at Geewa Brno, is looking forward to the cooperation: "Geewa is a household name for online games in the Czech republic and Slovakia. I believe that by joining Geewa, we gain new and exciting opportunities. We want to keep developing and improving Age of Defenders and join the work on new titles that will bring fun and excitement to players worldwide."

Geewa continues to look for skilled professionals to join its team in Prague, Berlin and now Brno.
